General Information: You will need to purchase the pattern for Indian Summer and cut out your fabrics. Bring to class twenty-two (22) dark 5" by 42" strips and twenty-two (22) light 5" by 42" strips. Cut these strips from a variety of fabrics blending from lights to dark. You can use flannels or regular cotton weight fabrics. This is a good way to use up all those batiks you have been collecting over the years. (Fat quarters can be used rather than strips, but the strips are much easier to use). The cutting instructions were designed for the use of strips so if you choose to use fat quarters I have to redesign the cutting instructions for you at class.

Things to do before class:

- Please read the instructions prior to class.
- Please make your templates before coming to class.
- Cut out one page of foundation papers.
- Please have your strips cut prior to class.
